In 2025, Monaco recorded its second-largest budget surplus (€179.7 million), following a slight decline compared with the previous year (-€13.0 million). Expenditure growth (+€153.3 million, or +7.2%) was, indeed, higher than that of revenue (+€140.3 million, or +6.0%). In detail, ordinary expenditure rose by 5.0% (+€62.5 million), while capital expenditure grew twice as fast (+€90.8 million, or +10.4%).

Revenue growth remains steady

At €2.5 billion, state revenue grew again, at a rate similar to that seen over the past three years (+6.0% in 2025, compared with +5.8% in 2024 and +6.0% in 2023).

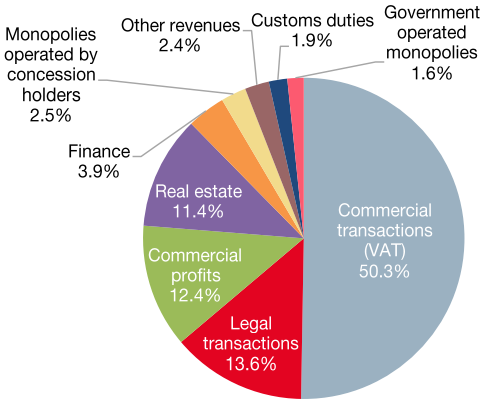

This increase stems mainly from revenue from legal transactions, which rose by €85.0 million, or 34.1%. To a lesser extent, VAT revenue increased by €43.0 million (+3.6%) and revenue from real estate by €39.0 million (+16.1%). After experiencing sharp increases in 2024, revenue from commercial profits and the financial sector fell by €27.9 million and €23.7 million respectively.

The rise in expenditure is accelerating after two more moderate years

Following two years of moderate increases, budgetary expenditure rose more sharply in 2025 (+7.2%) to reach €2.3 billion.

With the exception of Sovereign expenditure, which remained relatively stable (-0.7%), all expenditure categories increased compared with the previous year.

This is particularly true of capital and investment expenditure, which was up by more than €90 million, or 10.4%. Operating expenditure, meanwhile, rose by more than €50 million, driven in particular by common expenditure (+€30.2 million, or +12.0%).

Equipment and investment: expenditure on major works and equipment, and the acquisition of buildings. Includes equipment for road, cultural, port, urban development, public health, social, administrative and sports projects;

Public intervention: assistance, subsidies paid out and public policies implemented by the Government. Includes communal contributions, subsidies to public institutions, assistance provided to international, educational and cultural, social and humanitarian, sporting, and economic causes and to events;

Service provision: operating costs directly incurred by the ministries and administrative offices;

Common expenditure: expenditure managed communally by certain offices on behalf of all offices: social security contributions, cleaning premises, expenditure on water, gas, electricity and insurance for state-owned properties, IT equipment for administrative offices;

Public services: expenditure on street cleaning, collection and incineration of waste, public lighting, water consumption, public transport, etc.;

Sovereign expenditure: expenditure relating to the Prince's Palace and Sovereign House;

Assemblies and established bodies: expenditure relating to the National Council, the Economic and Social Council, the Council of State, the Board of Auditors, etc.

The Constitutional Reserve Fund (CRF) has surpassed the €8 billion mark

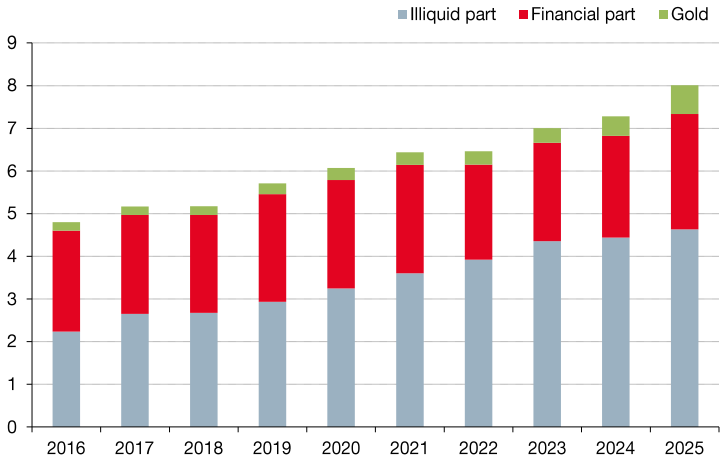

At the end of December 2025, the assets of the Constitutional Reserve Fund stood at €8.0 billion, following an increase of €729 million (+10.0%). It includes:

- a gold reserve of around €676 million;
- a "financial" component of €2.7 billion consisting of investments (mutual funds invested in shares, bonds, etc.) and bank deposits;
- an "illiquid" component of €4.6 billion.

The latter consists mainly of real estate assets (€2.1 billion), located in Monaco and neighbouring municipalities, with the exception of embassies. Their valuation fluctuates in line with the BT01 construction index and rose slightly over the year (+3.9%), driven by acquisitions, disposals and transactions carried out. These assets generate, for the most part, rental income from businesses, shops and private individuals.

The "illiquid" component also includes the State's shareholdings in several companies, amounting to approximately €1.7 billion. These include, in particular, SBM (64.2% of the capital), as well as state-linked companies such as SMEG, SMEAUX, the Société d'Exploitation du Grimaldi Forum and the Société d'Exploitation des Ports de Monaco. However, the state's stake in Monaco Telecom (50%) falls under the state budget accounts.
