Principle

Stamp duty is a tax that is levied on all documents used for civil and legal purposes and for documents that are required as legal proof in court.

It is also a means of levying tax when administrative formalities are carried out (for example a certificate of domicile, work permit, family record booklet, passport, etc.)

Amount payable

Stamp duty is either applied at a fixed rate, or according to the size of paper used.

How to obtain the required documents

Tax stamps and stamped paper can be obtained from the Registration Department of the Department of Tax Services or from tobacconists.
