NUS remains in top ten of 2027 QS World University Rankings

The latest QS World University Rankings have been released, with two Singaporean universities ranking within the top 20 globally. NUS slipped two places to tenth globally, but still retains its position as the top university in Asia. NTU continues to hold its 12th place ranking and ranks third among Asian universities. Singapore's universities performed exceptionally well in terms of graduate employability, research influence, and internationalisation.
